OUR STORY

Aloha Stupido! Welcome to the Luca Lanai—a hideaway for the wayward and the wistful, perched above the Staffordshire Valley here on Edendale Island. Once a cargo depot for the Royal Edendale Navigation Co.—the island's premiere import/export and river-cruise concern—this outpost served expeditions deep into Edendale's mysterious interior. But time, like the river, winds on. Trails turned to roads, depots fell silent, and the jungle crept back in.

That is, until Massimo Paguro arrived.

Explorer. Botanist. Bartender. Bitten by the adventure bug (and several actual bugs), Massimo wandered far and wide—then claimed this forgotten depot as his home. Here, he mixed tales with tonics, poured legends into glasses, and welcomed travelers who shared his thirst for the unknown. Over time, the Luca Lanai became less a house, and more a haven—for stories, spirits, and secret societies best left unspoken of (unless you ask nicely).

When Massimo's off chasing the horizon, he leaves the lanterns lit and the bar in the hands of his trusted apprentices like me. So settle in, sip something strange, and sail away to a land of mystery, romance and adventure.

We're glad you've come aboard
